PREFACE

THE Societies for the Promotion of Hellenic and of Roman Studies are indebted to the zeal and to the liberality of their Librarian, Mr. John Penoyre, for the present classified catalogue of the joint Library. The collection now contains some 8,000 volumes (including 200 volumes of pamphlets), and shelf accommodation of a third of a mile. This must surely be regarded as a remarkable development of the single dwarf glazed bookcase purchased in 1881 to house the books and collections of the Hellenic Society.

A catalogue of the infant collection, dated February 1888, occupies eight small octavo pages of Volume VIII of the Journal of Hellenic Studies. This and thirteen annual lists of accessions were combined in the printed catalogue of 1903, which had grown to 98 large octavo pages. With this as a framework the successive accession lists have been incorporated year by year in the alphabetical catalogue used by readers in the Library. For the upkeep of this the Societies have long been indebted to Mrs. Culley.

The need for a unified list of some kind in the hands of members at a distance was becoming urgent, when Mr. Penoyre made an offer to print and present a classed list of the Library, the preparation of which had long occupied his attention. It appeared to the Council that many advantages attached to a classed list as proposed by Mr. Penoyre, rather than to the issue of a new alphabetical catalogue. The alphabetical catalogue is available in the Library, and the same information can be dug out from the annual supplements. Often, however, what the member requires is a means of surveying what the Library can offer in any particular branch of study, rather than to find a specific volume. A brief study of representative sections of the present list will show how vivid a view of the Library's resources can be gained from it. It is hoped that such a view will not only be helpful to the readers, but also serve to guide the efforts of the Library Committee, and the benevolent co-operation of members, to fill gaps.

Speaking generally, it may be said that the Library is strong in modern periodical publications, germane to its purpose, and in many of the costly Corpora of Inscriptions, and other collective publications. There is also a valuable collection of pamphlets, which are included in the present volume. Outside the classical field proper, there are valuable series such as the great catalogue of the Cairo Museum, the Memoirs of the Egypt Exploration Society, and the long series of the Archæological Survey of India.

In practically all the other branches there is room and need for systematic development. In particular the classical texts, both Greek and Latin, are weak, and the sections on the Roman Empire and Roman Britain are only yet in their infancy. Members who notice striking unae on their own subjects will be doing good service if they will ify these to the Librarian, even if purchase is for the time being possible. At present the Library's annual income of £100 is absorbed binding expenses and subscriptions to serial works and to such iodicals as cannot be obtained by means of exchange. The main tree of the supply of new books has for long been the influx of lumes sent for review to the Journals of the two Societies.

The arrangement of the new catalogue can be seen at a glance on folded leaf at the end of the volume, which can be kept in view ile the work is being consulted. The detailed contents and their ical basis are set out at the beginning of the work.

In each subsection the works are arranged alphabetically, except in ne few instances where a chronological arrangement seemed more orming. Thus in the section on Levantine Travel (§ 15A) the books, here listed in the order in which they were written, form some sort historical conspectus of travel and exploration in the Nearer East.
these chronological sections the dates appear in darker type.

Some lack of uniformity will be detected by the reader in the entries roughout the catalogue. It should be understood that it was comed from the Author's catalogue printed in 1903 and the nineteen cessive annual supplements. In recent years it has been the custom give more bibliographical detail in these supplements than was done the original catalogue and its immediate successors. It was necessary efore either to sacrifice this additional information for the sake of nilarity, or to print the entries as they stood with only a very moderate vision in the direction of uniformity. In the belief that the information ntained in the later supplements was too useful to sacrifice, the tter alternative has been adopted.

In addition to its obligation to Mr. Penoyre, the Society is indebted the following for skilled help given to the various sections:—Mr.
Ashmole, Mr. N. Baynes, Mr. H. I. Bell, Prof. H. E. Butler, Mr.
Cary, Prof. R. M. Dawkins, Mr. R. Gardner, Mr. Walter George, r. G. F. Hill, Prof. A. C. Pearson, Prof. T. E. Peet, Mr. F. N. Pryce, r. M. N. Tod and Mr. H. B. Walters. Mrs. Barge, a member of ur Association of Friends of the Library, has given valued practical elp for over a year.

My own part in the work as Honorary Librarian has mainly consisted the pleasant duty of standing ready to discuss any doubtful point hat presented itself for decision.

A. H. SMITH.

CONTENTS

THE order of the main sections follows that which has been in use for many years in Bursian's Bibliotheca Philologica Classica. This is in effect:

- Instruments of study.
- Language, thought and history.¹
- The locus in quo.
- The objects discovered.

¹ Including the beginnings of history, though these are necessarily archaeological rather than historical in the ordinary sense.

APPARATUS, INSTRUMENTS OF STUDY, ETC.

PERIODICALS § 1

All the periodical publications in the Library are given in this section in detail and in alphabetical order. Some of the more important cover the whole field of classical study and consequently are not named again. But the more specialised magazines are also quoted in abbreviated form at the end of the sections to which they particularly refer.
